Dangerous crossing

Woman asks council to fix track where three died

BY GEOFF BELCHER

A Hancock County nurse on Tuesday asked Bay St. Louis City Council members for their help in upgrading a railroad crossing where three people were killed by a train last month.

On Aug. 14, 21-year-old Cecile F. Bilbo, her 12-year-old brother Sean Finegan and 12-year-old Joseph Winningham were killed at the Webb Street railroad crossing in Bay St. Louis when their vehicle was struck by an oncoming train.

Helen Gaines, a nurse for Bay St. Louis physician Dr. Ted Willis, told council members Tuesday that, on behalf of Cecile Bilbo and Sean Finegan's father Dick Finegan, she was working to get something done about the Webb Street crossing. The city should either put closing gates on it, better lighting, close it completely, Gaines said.

"I just want people to realize there's a problem (with that crossing)," Gaines said yesterday. "and if we can't make them fix it, we need to get it closed. ... We just need to do something to make sure this doesn't happen again."

The cost of a railroad crossing is somewhat prohibitive, Gaines said. City officials have said the last crossing upgrade the city performed cost around $135,000.

Gaines said there is aid available

Nice view, but no tenants

A proposed luxury condominium development at Pass Christian still stands unfinished despite earlier plans to have the project completed by last year. Still, city officials say, there are still plans to complete the facility.

Pass condos not finished ... yet

BY ED LEPOMA

Although there has been no progress since last fall on a luxury condominium development planned in Pass Christian, there are still plans to go forward.

David Goff, the Gulfport attorney representing the property owners, told the Echo this week that an architect is reviewing previous plans, and the developers want to put the former Gulf Plaza Shopping Center "to its highest and best use."

Goff said a number of problems caused the property owners to call a halt to construction in November of last year, and legal wrangling took until now to settle the issues.

Amid great fanfare in October of 1997, Bob Hunt, a Pass Christian engineer, formed Mississippi Limited Liability Company (LLC) with John and Patty Scurlock, who acquired the former shopping center from an Encino, California firm.

Pass Christian Mayor Billy McDonald and the Board of Aldermen breathed a collective sign of relief, since they were being besieged by nearby property owners, who claimed the vacant property was attracting vagrants, devaluing their property, and was a health and safety menace to the neighborhood.

Hunt later went before the Pass Christian Planning Commission with design plans to convert the shell of the deteriorating shopping

Hancock juveniles exported

Sheriff wants temporary deal

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson says he'll ask the Board of Supervisors next week to allow him to enter into a short-term arrangement with Forrest County to temporarily house juvenile offenders.

Peterson was reacting to Wednesday's statement by Harrison County Sheriff Joe Price, who said his juvenile jail is so overcrowded, he can't take juveniles from adjoining Hancock County or any other county requesting assistance.

Price said his jail capacity is 20, but as of Wednesday, there were 47 juveniles crowded into cells "that aren't even big enough to hold two people."

The Hancock Board of Supervisors has a recess meeting scheduled Thursday, Sept. 30, and Peterson said at that time, he will ask supervisors if he can begin entering into serious discussions with Forest County "about the feasibility of housing the county's juvenile offenders."

Because Peterson is going out of office in January, the sheriff said he could not enter into any contract that would extend beyond his term

School back to 'normal'

BY GEOFF BELCHER

There's still a police presence on Bay High School campus, city school system Superintendent Dr. Kim Stasny said yesterday, but "school is back to normal."

The excitement all started last Thursday, when officers of the Waveland Police Department received an anonymous tip that four Bay High students were planning to cause "serious bodily harm" to two others at school on Friday.

The four accused students, ranging in age from 14-16, have been suspended, but not arrested, pending further investigation. Their names have not been released because they are juveniles. Allegedly the four planned to harm the other two students in response to an earlier dispute.

"Everything really feels normal, now," Stasny said yesterday. "Friday was a little bit chaotic, but Monday, things really straightened out."

Air park proposal gets thumbs down

Zoning not right for plan

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County's Planning Commission has voted against a developer's ambitious plan to build an air strip community similar to Diamondhead near the White Cypress Community.

The Commission held a second public hearing Sept. 16 on developer Tyrone Gill's proposal to build the Mint Julip Airpark and subdivision community, where planes would use the same streets as vehicles, and nearby neighbors turned out once again to protest.

The Commission previously held a hearing on the matter Aug. 5, but Gill wanted to increase the number of residences from 82 to 118, and although the hearing went on, it was later ruled the hearing notice was flawed because only 82 nits were advertised in the newspaper announcing the hearing and in notices sent out to nearby residents.

Gill has purchased a 173-acre tract now zoned R-3 multi-family residential. He envisions the an Airpark community with eventually up to 118 single-family homes. Lots would mostly be one-acre and some would face a

Sewer lines to be built soon

BY ED LEPOMA

Residents living in Hancock County areas that are soon to be sewerred are being asked to call or visit the Water and Sewer District Office at 3068 Longfellow Drive.

District Administrator Pam Gauthreaux said the District will begin construction of sewer lines "very soon" in Bayside Park, areas of Harbor Drive, the Klein Subdivision, Shoreline Park east and west, the Kiln/Waveland Cutoff to Interstate 10- and that portion

Project PRINTS of Hancock County relocates in Bay St. Louis

Project PRINTS, the early intervention program of the South Mississippi Regional Center, welcomed guests to an Open House in the Lakeshore Community on Friday, Sept. 10. The new location, across from the Gulfview Elementary School on Lower Bay Road in Bay St. Louis, will provide better facilities and accessibility for persons who can benefit from the program.

Project PRINTS, an acronym for Partnerships for Responsive

Intervention Newborn to School, works with children ages birth to three who are diagnosed with a developmental disability.

Project PRINTS provides a wide range of services to infants and children who are experiencing delays and to their families. The goal of the program is to minimize these delays and increase the potential for future development.

Research has shown that reaching children at an early age can have positive results in the child's home and in future school settings. Getting the right services at the right time can make a difference. The Project PRINTS staff work hand-in-hand with school districts to insure all children are prepared for school and that each child is prepared to achieve his or her potential.

Project PRINTS is an expansion of service of the South Mississippi Regional Center supports Mississippians with mental retardation and other developmental disabilities, providing comprehensive individualized service options in the six southern-most counties.

Through an active partnership of staff, family, client and community, these service options are designed to enhance each client's quality of life and independence in living, learning and working. SMRC's campus is located in Long Beach with 26 additional program sites throughout its service area.

Waveland woman injured in collision with wrecker

BY GEOFF BELCHER

A Waveland woman remained hospitalized yesterday following a Monday evening collision with a wrecker on Highway 90.

According to a press release issued Tuesday by Waveland Chief of Police James Varnell, officers arriving on the scene Monday found a GMC Jimmy driven by Karla Condif, 49, turned over on its side.

John Collins, a driver for Jake's Wrecker Service of Diamondhead, told officers he had been travelling east on Hwy. 90 and was in the left lane of traffic approaching the Hwy. 90-Waveland Ave. intersection, when the accident occurred, according to the release.

Collins, 52, of Bay St. Louis, said Condif's vehicle turned in front of him as he was going through the green light and the two vehicles collided. The wrecker then hit a car owned by Johnathan Khneman of Bay St. Louis that was parked in the Whitney Bank parking lot.

"Three witnesses stated that the driver of the wrecker had the right of way and the other vehicle failed to yield right of way," Varnell said in the release. "Due to the seriousness of injuries to (Condif), she was not interviewed at time of accident or at Hancock Medical Center.

Condif was treated at the scene by Waveland Fire-Rescue and American Medical Response.

The accident is still under investigation by Officer David Legros of the Waveland Police Department.

Three area businesses cited

BY ED LEPOMA

Employees of three out of 12 convenient stores checked last Saturday were cited for the unlawful sale of tobacco products to minors.

Using a volunteer undercover minor, members of the Hancock County Sheriff's department and the Narcotics Task Force conducted the checks, and issued citations for selling tobacco products to a person under 18, to employees of Kodie's Junction, state Hwy. 603; Kent and Sue's Quick Stop, Lakeshore; and EZ Serve, Pearlinton.

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said although the number of illegal tobacco sales made on Saturday is down from the county average of 42 percent, "a single sale of a tobacco product to a minor is unacceptable."

The Sheriff said he is confident that continued enforcement will result in a steady decline in the number of illegal sales.

Peterson also announced that his department is eligible for continued funding through a grant provided by the state Attorney General's Office and "The Partnership for a Healthy Mississippi."

"The grant will enable us to continue our tobacco enforcement efforts through the year 2000," he added.

Peterson commended the employees of the other nine businesses checked for refusing to sell tobacco products to minors. These included: Cuevas Grocery and Hardware, Pearlinton; V.N.L.'s Quick Stop, Lakeshore Road; Carmel's Seafood, Lakeshore; Garcia's Grocery, Todd's Food Mart, Interstate 10; and J&E Exxon, I-10.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The game of the season for Hancock County in high school football will be Friday night when the Hancock Hawks and St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws tangle in Brother Phillip Memorial stadium.

Stanislaus is 4-0 for the season while Hancock is 2-2, but has been playing state ranked teams.

This will be the first conference game for both the Hawks and Rocks and the stadium should have standing room only for this most important game for both teams.

Both Stanislaus and Hancock were impressive last week in victories. Stanislaus defeated d'Iberville 28-17 with a major school mark being set. Junior running back Kris Cannon set a career record of 2,057 yards, edging Corey Charles' 2,053 yards set in 1996.

Over the past 150 plus years Stanislaus has had some great athletes, such as, Army All-American Felix (Doc) Blanchard in football and others in track, baseball, boxing, etc.

This was the first time for Stanislaus to defeat the Warrior's high school football team since 1976.

Cannon needs to be complimented on his record-setting performance for the Rocks.

Hancock's Hawk defense shined as it shut out an always explosive Ocean Springs. Chris Goff continues to grind out the yards in rushing for the Hawks.

Even with the game between Hancock and Stanislaus being the first conference tilt for the Hawks and Rocks, its outcome can mean a lot by the end of the season for both teams.

I am sure that the Hawks and Rocks will be ready Friday night for what is usually referred to as a "barn burner."

Bay High's Tigers will also open conference play with an away game against Pearl River. The Tigers are sporting a 3-1 record this season. Tiger signal caller Ty Barrett has been having a great year at quarterback.

The Tigers should be ready for Pearl River and could add another win with a good four quarter effort like this past Friday night.

Pass Christian's Pirates will be in an away game again this week, but it will have a different flavor as it will be the opening of conference play.

The Pirates travel to Tylertown and need some good fan support from home in the stadium.

The Tigers, Hawks, Rocks and Pirates all need good fan support Friday night.

At this stage in the season, this is the best combined record for the three Hancock County schools.

We hope to see you at the game Friday night.

The cleanup in Hancock County last Saturday was very successful due the large participation by so many folks.

It is through the help of so many that a lot of litter was removed from our beaches and waterways in the area.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Committee wants to says thanks to everyone for a job well done.

During the cleanup Saturday, a group of 10 members of the Lakeshore-Ansley Civic Association collected a dump truck load of litter from the Ansley-Heron Bay Road. This was a great task, yet I am told the amount of litter in the area was less this time then on previous occasions.

In every area, it was reported that the amount of litter was less then on previous occasions, and this is good.

We just need more and more folks to become aware of how litter creates so many problems for the area.

One must remember that we, as taxpayers, spend all types of money because of litter.

Most reports I have received indicate that for every hour a state, city, or county employee spends on a mowing machine, two hours of labor is spent on picking up litter.

Just think how much more time could be used in keeping our roadways and highways mowed more often if litter was not a problem.

We need to extend an appreciation to our Board of Supervisors, Waste Management, Inc., Congressman Gene Taylor, Wal-Mart, Waveland, Homemakers Carolyn Geoffrey and Inez Olivier, students, Earth Shores Foundation, Lakeshore-Ansley Civic Association, chamber beautification members, and all volunteers for their help Saturday.

Remember, we can all make a difference.

Saturday and Sunday are the two big days of the Diamondhead Arts & Crafts show.

This is one of the largest arts and crafts shows in the area and there will be numerous exhibitors in just about any art and craft.

This annual affair will take place on the grounds of the Diamondhead Country Club at Diamondhead.

The hours on Saturday are 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sunday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

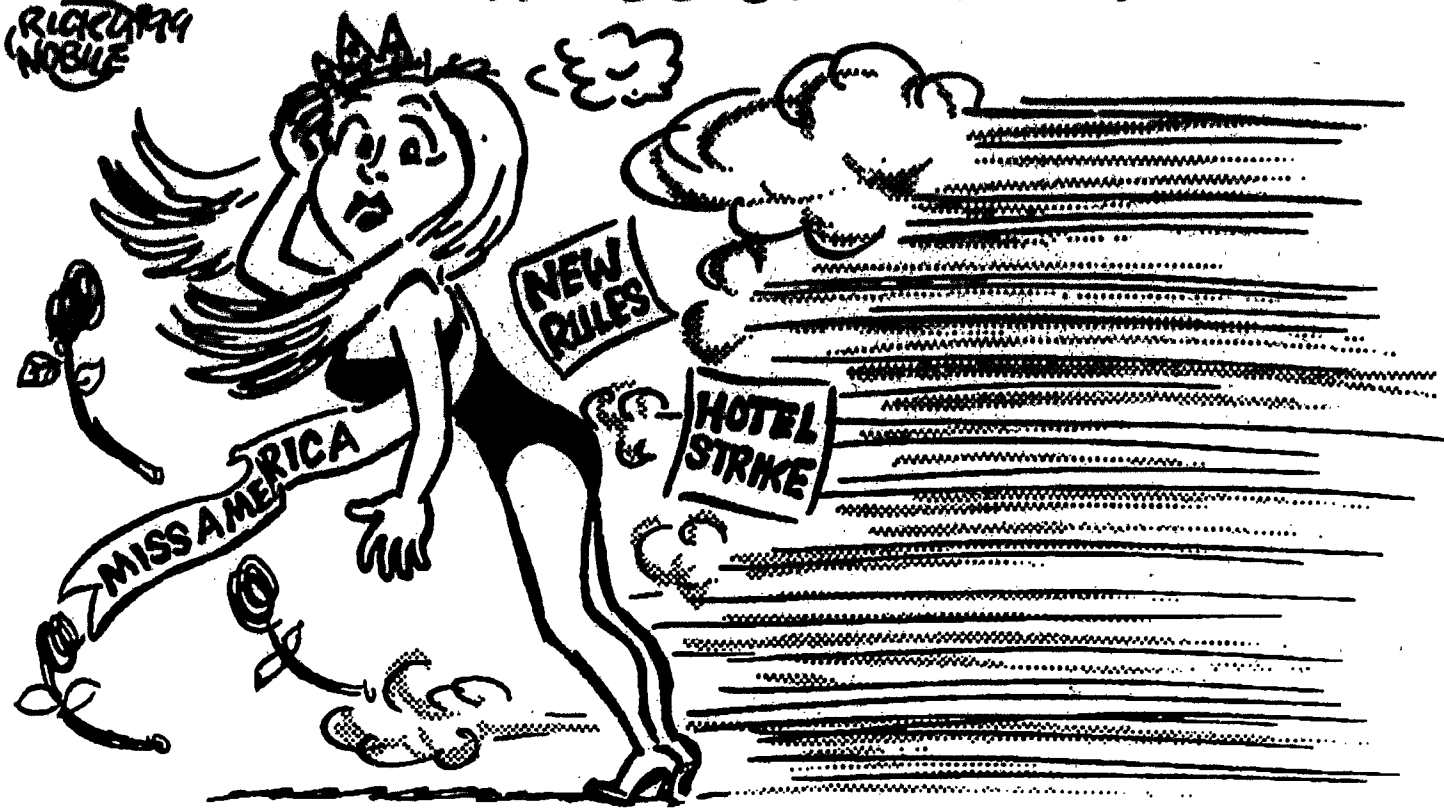

Many area residents begin their Christmas shopping at the Diamondhead Arts & Crafts show which just has so many things to offer.

We hope to see you at the arts & crafts festival this weekend.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Teacher/parent support board/administration action

Dear Editor,
Recently, Bay High School received media attention because of an incident involving two groups of boys — one group threatening the other group. The threats suggested the use of violence, possibly at our high school.

These threats may have been idle threats said out of anger, but the police and the administration took control of the situation immediately to insure the safety of everyone concerned.

Our new superintendent, Dr. Kim Stasny, is to be commended for the actions she took in dealing with an uncertain and unpleasant situation.

She took the time to visit classrooms to talk directly with the students, offering accurate information about the occurrence. Unfortunately, many unfounded rumors had already been spread throughout the community, causing undue alarm.

The police were on hand all day at the school and that night at the ball game. Their presence helped make our day proceeded with as much normalcy as possible.

Speaking as an employee at the high school and as a parent of a high school student, I want to say that I felt very safe that day and that I did not fear for the safety of my child.

I think the teachers, administrators, police, school board members, students and other related parties cooperated successfully to squelch any possibility of a disturbance on our campus.

Jerry Lewis praises Bay area participation

Dear Editor:

The people of the Bay St. Louis area have done it again! They really pulled for us this year and helped make the 1999 Jerry Lewis MDA Telethon a winner with $53.1 million in pledges and contributions.

By taking part in local MDA events, by calling in pledges to the Telethon broadcast on WLOX-TV, Channel 13, by helping "my kids" in other ways, Sea Coast Echo readers have made a huge difference for families throughout Mississippi and across the nation.

They've helped speed MDA-funded research around the globe. Moreover, they've helped maintain the national network of clinics that resulted in MDA becoming the first organization honored by the American Medical Association with a Lifetime Achievement Award "for significant and lasting contributions to the health and welfare of humanity." In Mississippi MDA has two clinics offering the best in patient care.

For making the 1999 MDA Telethon a bell-ringer, thanks, Bay St. Louis area residents.

Sincerely,
Jerry Lewis

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Term limits may not be as beneficial as you think

On the term limits proposal, my feeling is sort of like what Soggy Sweatt used to say about prohibition: Some of my friends are for it; some of my friends are against it. I'm for my friends.

First off, those who think limiting terms state legislators can be elected is a panacea for all the ills that infect the legislative branch of state government are, at best, naive.

What's bothersome is that almost invariably, staunch advocates of imposing term limits are knee-jerk conservatives, with single-issue ideological agendas who care little about other governmental problems.

That philosophy doesn't make state government work better.

All politics is local, as Former House Speaker Tip O'Neill used to say. Probably more so in Mississippi. Home folks here don't send people to the Legislature on any ideological litmus test but for what they will do about local concerns.

For instance, Coast folks want their lawmakers to look after the fishing industry, as well as the environment; in Piney Woods counties timber and streams are big; in the Delta, it's agriculture; Northeast Mississippi, public and higher education.

Back when House Speaker Buddie Newman, and his Delta-based Old Guard, plus a few other members he kept on tight leash—all of them long tenured—blocked progressive legislation with abandon, I was rather certain term limits was the answer to break up their power.

However, when in 1987 a cadre of 16 younger House members staged an uprising which eventually toppled Newman and the Old Guard and democratized House rules, I changed my mind on term limits. I realized there were other ways to bring about reform.

Now I have one caveat: After the palace coup in the House brought Tim Ford to power, Ford has unfortunately forgotten some of the reasons for Newman's downfall. Seven House reform rules came out of the 1987 revolt, one of them to limit a Speaker to two terms. Ford deftly got that rule eliminated a couple of years after he became Speaker. It seems a virtual certainty that he will be re-elected Speaker next year, for a fourth term. My feeling is that Ford now is in danger of overplaying his hand, and if he is wise, he'll find a way to relinquish power before long or he, too, will be toppled.

Ford has been spared any challenge from within the past few years because the erratic Kirk Fordice years have forced lawmakers to close ranks to stabilize state government. But with Fordice gone, that may change.

"Stump" Ed Perry, who is giving up his House seat after 32 years, is a classic argument against legislative term limits. Many in state government will readily say that Perry's vast knowledge and legislative experience in fields of finance, high education and the constitution have been of incomparable value to the state.

As one high-ranking state official said last week, unlimited terms in the Legislature cuts both ways. "You've got some bad folks in there who ought to go, but some good folks who need to stay," he said.

Unquestionably, incumbency tends to guarantee re-election for many lawmakers without opposition, some "good", some "bad." Already, 47 House members and 21 Senators, have been re-elected without having to face the voters.

That's one-third of the House, but a sizable 40 percent of the Senate.

The ballot issue in November would limit both senators and House members to two terms. But after that they could run for a seat in the opposite branch.

Some have done the latter with success in the past, but not often.

What voters should keep in mind is that state legislators, unlike their representatives in Congress, are part time, not full time public servants.

Many believe it takes a minimum of two terms before the average state legislator can learn the job.

It's a judgment call: How long is long enough to keep a legislator in office? Think about it.

Board of Education awards bids

During the September 14 recess meeting, the Hancock County School District's Board of Education awarded bids for construction and renovation at Hancock North Central Elementary and improvements at the Vocational Technical Center.

Casablanca Construction Company of Hattiesburg submitted the low bid of $2,480,000 for construction of an eight-classroom addition, renovation in the front office area of the main building, and removal of asbestos tile at Hancock North Central Elementary.

Other major improvements to the elementary school will include sanding, seating, and refinishing of the gymnasium floor, installation of teacher wardrobe cabinets, re-keying of entire campus, updating the fire alarm system, and renovation of restroom facilities to meet ADA standards.

Minor improvements to be made are changing of HVAC equipment, new flooring, fresh paint, and drop ceilings in the cafeteria, kindergarten, first grade, and fourth grade buildings.

Moran Hauling Inc. of Kiln submitted the low bid of $251,777 for renovations at the Vocational-Technical Center which include replacement of the outside building panels to match existing campus structures, drop ceilings in classrooms, removal of asbestos floor tile, and reinstallation of new floor tile. Construction and renovation at these two facilities are expected to begin in early October.

USM joins Internet2 development organization

By Bill Sutley

The University of Southern Mississippi has joined the organization behind the Internet2 project, which aims to boost members' advanced research and technology capabilities.

The University Corporation for Advanced Internet Development notified Southern Miss recently that its application had been accepted, also paving the way for improvements in the areas of computer networking and distance education at USM.

"It's important we join if we're trying to pull ourselves up to the next level," said Dr. John McGowan, USM's chief technology officer. "This is the next generation of the Internet."

UCAID launched Internet2's high-speed network, Abilene, last February as an alternate route for researchers in education, medicine, the federal government and a handful of corporations to employ computing applications that require extremely high speeds of connectivity or storage capacity.

Researchers at Abilene-connected institutions can log into remote supercomputers, collaborate in virtual-reality environments and remotely operate instruments such as sophisticated microscopes and telescopes. The network will also make it possible for member institutions to use specialized videoconferencing tools for distance education and other communication needs.

"This is a totally different environment," McGowan said.

Although UCAID has more than 150 member institutions, fewer than half are connected to Abilene. The key to taking that step is development of high-speed campus networking, which has been a priority at Southern Miss since McGowan became USM's first chief technology officer in 1998.

Southern Miss has committed to $10 million in improvements for its computer network over the next few years—upgrades that McGowan says had to be made anyway.

That includes adding high-speed fiber-optic connections to 15 more Hattiesburg campus buildings and several USM Gulf Coast facilities by mid-2000 in the first phase of a multi-year project.

USM Gulf Coast plans are a key reason for joining UCAID, McGowan said. Two of USM's Institute for Marine Sciences facilities—the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs and the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium in Biloxi—have distance education ideas for Internet2 use.

IMS wants to make it possible to allow remote manipulation of oceanic models and experiments at its Biloxi center. USM proposes that Internet2 could allow those experiments to be shared with marine science classes in elementary and secondary schools, along with other universities.

Programs offered by Southern Miss at Stennis Space Center could benefit significantly from Internet2.

"The significant research using I2 will be in the areas of Scientific Computing, Center of Ocean and Atmospheric Modeling (at Stennis), Polymer Science, Marine Sciences and others who use large databases for modeling and visualization," said Dr. Don Cotten, USM's vice president for research.

All of these but USM's internationally recognized School of Polymers and High Performance Materials are based primarily at Stennis; the Ph.D.-level Program in Scientific Computing is equally based at Stennis and Hattiesburg.

"(Internet2) will certainly have a strong influence in what we're trying to do at Stennis Space Center and show USM has a strong commitment to these different initiatives," McGowan said. Cotten agreed.

"This resource strengthens our role at Stennis Space Center," he said.

Both McGowan and Cotten noted that Internet2 participation will make Southern Miss eligible for certain grants for advanced computing projects.

"Internet2 will be a critical part of that puzzle," Cotten said. "We have to have Internet2 and that high-speed computing capability."

Gaining Internet2 capabilities will not only aid research and distance education efforts, McGowan said. Moving those advanced computing demands onto another national network will free up space on USM's current links to the conventional Internet.

In distance education, Internet2 will move Southern Miss beyond the current capabilities now employed in offering 55 online courses this fall.

While faculty teaching those courses are now able to use e-mail, chat room and a variety of other tools for interacting with students, Internet2 will make real-time videoconferencing possible.

McGowan predicted Internet2 participation also will be a drawing card in recruiting faculty and students who can make use of its capabilities.

"I think this is a big step forward for us," McGowan said. "We must play on a big field, not a little one."

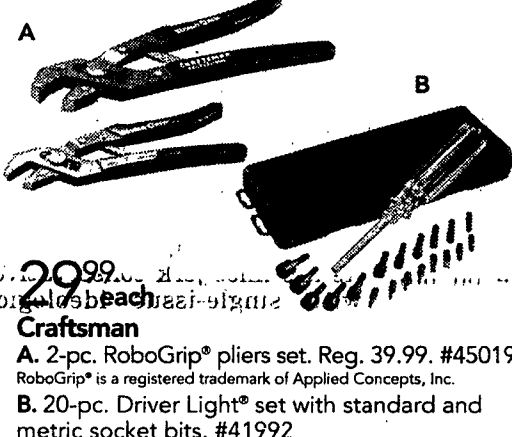

Elect a proven leader with the integrity and experience you need now.

United Way kicks off community campaign

Six Hancock County organizations will be honored when United Way of South Mississippi (UWSM) stages a Campaign Rally Friday, Sept. 24, announced Janice Young, chairperson for the 1999 community campaign.

The event, to be held 4:30-6 p.m. at Barnaby's Seafood Restaurant, Long Beach, will employ the style of an old-fashioned political rally to celebrate the success of over 30 Pacesetter organizations.

"The Pacesetter campaign results are now in and, in keeping with our political rally theme, we want to salute these folks as the winners of our first primary," said Young. Pacesetter representatives will be recognized at 5 p.m.

Hancock County's United Way Pacesetters are Coast

Electric Power Association, Treutel Insurance Agency, Hope Haven, the Bay St. Louis office of Eaton & Cottrell, Attorneys, the Rocketdyne division of Boeing at Stennis Space Center and Hancock County Youth Task Force to Save Our Children.

Pacesetters are those organizations that conduct work place campaigns earlier than the start of the annual fall United Way campaign season, and they traditionally achieve a high percentage of employee support.

Pacesetters report contributions they raised as the community campaign begins and help to set the pace for other campaign supporters.

This year's UWSM goal of $1.8 million was determined by campaign leaders as necessary to continue funding United Way's 45 affiliated human service and community building agencies and programs in Harrison, Hancock and Pearl River counties, the campaign chair said.

Young officially announced the goal and kicked off UWSM's community campaign during the Sept. 18 National Hockey league exhibition game at the Coast Coliseum, Biloxi, sponsored by the Mississippi Sea Wolves.

The Sept. 24 campaign event, sponsored in part by John Bull of Barnaby's, also will serve to rally representatives from the approximately 150 South Mississippi businesses and organization that conduct United Way employee campaigns during the fall campaign.

These representatives, called company coordinators, are invited to attend the rally to discover the "fun" in fundraising, Young said.

"We appreciate the efforts of company coordinators in helping us tell the good news of United Way of South Mississippi, encouraging their fellow employees to participate," Young said. "This event will help us show that appreciation."

Pinson speaks at Ohr art symposium

In conjunction with Frank Janca & The Artists of Provence, the current feature exhibition at the George Ohr Arts & Cultural Center, Dr. Patricia Pinson will discuss the French Impressionistic movement at an art symposium Wednesday, Sept. 29 6-7 p.m.

Dr. Pinson has maintained a career in teaching, performance and administration at colleges in Virginia, Tennessee and Mississippi. She is the winner of the Higher Education Award from the Mississippi Art Education Association for 1998.

"The French Impressionists broke into a world of art with a different vision which would set the course for the next century," says Pinson.

"Breaking with tradition, they painted outdoors with a quick open brushwork" that often angered the connoisseurs and community alike who dismissed them as amateurs who couldn't paint very well or as arrogant who thumbed their nose at tradition."

For information regarding the symposium or the current exhibition of French artists, call 228-374-5547.

Local high school student could win $20,000 scholarship, trip to Washington, D.C.

Commander Leonard Smith of VFW Post 3253, Bay St. Louis, announced the start of this year's Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Ladies Auxiliary "Voice of Democracy" competition.

Ninth-, 10th-, 11th- and 12th-grade students in our area have the opportunity to compete in the 53rd annual audio essay program and win valuable scholarships and awards.

According to Smith, the students earn much more than scholarships and awards when they participate in "Voice of Democracy."

The additional benefits include increased self-confidence and poise, experience in polishing their communication skills, and the opportunity for self-expression. Those that advance to become the state winner are given the additional opportunity to expand their knowledge of our nation's capital city during a full five-day tour of Washington, D.C., plus the chance to meet and befriend students from every state.

"This national audio/essay contest is designed to give high school students the opportunity to voice their opinion on America and their commitment to our future," said Senior Vice-Commander Randolph Bourgeois, Post 3253 co-chairman.

Local, district, department and national scholarship awards are available. National awards total $132,000, with the first-place scholarship at $20,000.

This year's theme is "America's role for the Next Century," and the deadline for student entry is Nov. 1.

Interested students need to write and then record a three- to five-minute audio essay while expressing their views of the program theme.

Bourgeois said, "Young people who participate in the competition benefit by gaining a better understanding of their country, their freedoms and their obligation to America."

For information on participation, students should contact their high school counselor or call Bourgeois at 467-7792.

Hancock students participate in dig

Students from the multi-age classes at East Hancock Elementary and Hancock North Central Elementary recently participated in an archaeological dig. The activity was the final project for an instructional unit about dinosaurs. The unit began with a trip to the IMAX Theatre in New Orleans where the students enjoyed "T-Rex," a 3-D movie about digging for dinosaurs. After discovering arrowheads, rocks, pottery and real bones during the dig, students learned to document the find using a grid system, precise measurement, direction and other necessary archaeological information.

Hope Haven: A little help from our friends

Dream Weavers Foundation for Children has again donated backpacks and school supplies to Hope Haven Children's Shelter.

"The cost of equipping one child with the required school supplies is about $60 now," said Terry Latham, director of Hope Haven.

"We will have to supply school items for about 70 children during the school year so the Dream Weavers donation really helps. We also received school supplies from the local Alpha, Delta Kappa Sorority which we are grateful for as well."

Hope Haven also made several hundred dollars from the sale of office equipment donated by Jon Ritten, Coast Delta Realty in Diamondhead, that will be used for school items.

Contact Hope Haven at 467-7945 if you want to donate items or help the shelter. Hope Haven is the only non-profit children's shelter in south Mississippi, and all contributions are 100 percent tax deductible.

WHEN IT COMES TO EDUCATION, WHEN WILL WE EVER LEARN OUR LESSON?

There was a time in this state when our only solution for education was to throw more money at a flawed system. Let's not ever do that again.

I'm Mike Parker. I think it's time to fix the system. As your next Governor, I want to give teachers immunity from lawsuits so they can have control of their classrooms. Because without discipline, our schools can't function properly.

And our kids can't get the education they deserve. Next, we need a testing program with real teeth in it. It's time to stop passing kids from one grade to the next when they're not ready. And it's time to stop graduating seniors who can barely read their own diplomas.

Educating children is hard work. Let's not turn the clock back to a time when all we did was throw more money at the problem. Let's finally give our kids the schools they deserve.

Because if we haven't learned our lesson by now, how will our children ever learn theirs?

BUSINESS NEWS

New partnership agreements will help SBA reach minority small businesses

U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) Administrator Aida Alvarez recently signed historic partnership agreements with three leading national African-American organizations that will help the agency deliver its small business financing, technical assistance, contracting and other programs to minority entrepreneurs.

The agreements were signed at the Washington, D.C. Headquarters of the National Council of Negro Women (NCNW), whose leaders signed the agreement with Administrator Alvarez. Also signing agreements with Alvarez were representatives of the National Association of Black Accountants and the Phelps Stokes Fund.

"These agreements will help ensure more Americans a seat at the nation's economic table," Administrator Alvarez said. "Combining the resources of the SBA with the networks of these influential and vigorous organizations sends a powerful message that we're serious about all Americans sharing in our economic prosperity."

"In the midst of this great economic expansion — 100 consecutive months of economic growth, we are obligated to help make sure the doors to opportunity are wide open for everyone."

"Because if we can't find a way to give every single hard-working American family the chance to participate in the future we are building for this country, during this time of great prosperity — then we'll never get around to it."

Con-Tech awarded Nigerian contracts

Con-Tech Power Systems Inc. has been awarded contracts from the Nigerian Navy for engineering and products required for the naval vessel NNS Ofom.

The contract is for the design, fabrication and assembly of a complete integrated machinery, alarm and control system.

The system is a technically advanced, computerized, windows-based PLC graphical (touch screen) user interface system, providing for ships service control and monitoring, including the engine order telegraph system to be installed in an existing LCM-1300, 300 ft. class military landing craft.

This and other contracts represent over $1 million of Con-Tech product exported to Nigeria for use by the Nigerian government.

The design and engineering will be provided by Con-Tech automation and control with manufacturing and assembly provided by Con-Tech Power Systems Inc.

Corporate office and facilities located in Port Bienville Industrial Park, Pearllington.

"These partnership agreements commit us all to the hard work of increasing participation by African-American entrepreneurs in SBA's capital access, procurement, international trade, advocacy, welfare-to-work and women-owned business programs," Alvarez said.

"SBA's role is to make sure that access — access to credit, access to technical assistance and access to federal contracts — is part of the solution, not part of the problem."

The NCNW is a voluntary nonprofit organization that helps African-American women find ways to improve the quality of life for themselves, their families and communities. Through a network of community-based organizations, the NCNW has outreach capability to four million women.

D. H. Blair clients may be due a refund

Secretary of State Eric Clark announces that some Mississippi investors may be eligible for part of a $2.25 million restitution fund set up by broker-dealer D. H. Blair & Co. of New York following a settlement with his office.

"At least 51 Mississippians are former D. H. Blair & Co. clients, and we're aggressively looking out for their interests," Clark said.

D. H. Blair & Co. was investigated by Clark's office and authorities from other states on claims of deceptive business dealings including improperly pricing certain securities and failing to make adequate disclosure.

Clark approved Mississippi's share of the settlement as the state's chief securities regulator, based on findings of the New York Stock Exchange and National Association of Securities Dealers Regulation, Inc.

The company specialized in the sale of high-risk micro-cap stocks to investors through aggressive cold-calling campaigns. The New York firm agreed to a consent order with Clark's office as part of a multi-state agreement to refund clients $2.25 million. The money comes from an escrow account set up by the NASDR for the mediation/arbitration process.

All potential claims must be based on trades made with D. H. Blair & Co. between Jan. 1, 1996 and June 30, 1998, Clark said.

Clients wishing to participate in this mediation program must execute a Mediation/Arbitration Submission Agreement within 60 days from receipt of the notice.

D. H. Blair & Co. will be sending notices to customers who were account holders as of Dec. 31, 1997.

Although D. H. Blair & Co. is not admitting or denying allegations of violating securities regulations, it has agreed to the New York Stock Exchange consent order and has submitted a letter of acceptance, waiver and consent to NASDR.

The NYSE consent order has provided that D. H. Blair & Co. agree to a censure, a $250,000 fine and independent review of its procedures to ensure compliance with securities laws.

Investors who have questions about the settlement should contact the National Association of Securities Dealers Regulation, Attn: Kenneth Andrichik, Mediation Director, 125 Broad Street, New York, N.Y. 10004. The telephone number is 212-858-3915.

Walker appointed to Regulatory Fairness Board

The federal government's Regulatory Fairness Board representing the Southeast United States recently appointed Jackson businessman LeRoy Walker as their newest member.

The 10 regional Regulatory Fairness Boards represent the 10 geographical areas served by U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) regional offices.

Each board consists of five small business owners who review small business concerns about federal enforcement and compliance actions.

The 50 members are selected from a nomination pool of more than 500 owners, managers, operators and officers of small businesses.

Walker is president of LTM Enterprises and owns and operates 15 McDonald's restaurants in the southeastern United States. He was nominated to serve on the Regulatory Fairness Board by U.S. Congressman Bennie G. Thompson.

The Regulatory Fairness Board was established in 1996 when President Clinton signed the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act (SBREFA) into law. The administrator of the SBA, currently Aida Alvarez, appoints the 50 members of the board after consultation with the Congress.

Walker, as the president and owner of a small business confronted daily with the problems involved with working with federal agencies, is uniquely qualified to understand importance of providing small business owners more influence on federal regulatory enforcement practices."

The SBA was created in 1963 to help small businesses get started, stay in business and grow.

For information about the Regulatory Fairness Boards, call 1-888-REG-FAIR or visit the SBA website at www.sba.gov/regfair. To contact LTM Enterprises, Inc. or Walker, call (601) 352-1742.

Juveniles -- sheriff plans to move them of office. But, he said if an agreement could be reached with Forest County it would at least resolve the current dilemma until the end of the year.

In the past, Peterson said, it has not cost the county a great deal of money to ship off juveniles to neighboring Pearl River County.

"That's because we had a swap-out deal," said Peterson. "We were housing some of their adult prisoners that were considered high-escape risks, and in return, they were taking our juveniles," said Peterson.

However, the sheriff said Pearl River's Juvenile Detention Center was "getting filled up," so he had turned to house Hancock County minors.

Currently, Peterson said Forrest County is charging Hancock $76 a day to house its juveniles, but he thought that charge might be reduced if Hancock County can enter into a short-term contract with Forrest County.

Where to build a state-mandated Juvenile Detention Center in Hancock County has been a problem that has eluded two Boards of Supervisors.

The state Department of Corrections threatened to take back a $112,000 Public Safety Grant if the previous Board did not show progress on finding a site and providing permanent funding to build a Juvenile Detention Center in Hancock County.

The Board that took office in January of 1995 soon took the bull by the horns, and started seeking out sites, but two downtown sites drew the wrath of merchants and residents.

Later, the current Board floated a $1.2 million bond issue to build the facility, and settled on plans to attach a Juvenile Detention Center on the rear of the historic downtown County Courthouse.

A design architect was hired, and the project was put out to bid three times, and each time, bids came out way above the moneys available to build the center.

In disgust, supervisors fired the Hattiesburg architect, and the design plans have remained on the shelf since last February.

At least one supervisor, District 2's Rocky Pullman, has grown frustrated with the current impasse.

At the last Board meeting, Pullman said supervisors need to decide whether they want to go ahead with the current plans, or select another site.

Condos -- plan to move forward center into 218 condo units that eventually would feature a club house, large indoor and outdoor swimming pools, a spa and tennis courts. Ther were plans later on for a marina across U.S. Hwy. 90.

Hunt obtained construction permits to begin converting the building, and work crews began closing in the facade of the building, and also installed steel and concrete supporting beams. Just before work was halted, some of the roofing was installed.

The Beach View Condominiums were to market for prices ranging from $130,000 to $150,000, but there was never one condo sold. In the meantime, residents of the nearby Emerald Park subdivision again complained when construction was halted in November of 1998 on the eight acre that is almost at the entrance of the Pass Christian city limits coming west.

Goff said Mississippi LLC in which Hunt was a partner, defaulted on the promissory note from the lender, which was the Louisiana-based LLC owned by the Scurlocks, and on Sept. 8, the Scurlocks foreclosed on the deed of trust and took the property back.

"The property is now back in their (the Scurlocks) hands, and they want to continue with the original idea (condos), but, they have an architect reviewing the site to determine if this is the highest and best use of this property," said Goff.

If the plans are altered dramatically, the property owners and design architect would have to again appear before the Planning Commission to approve a change in plans.

Goff said he did not know how long the architectural review would take, but he hoped the project could begin to move forward soon.

Strip -- air park plan denied

grassy airstrip.

Residents would be allowed to taxi their planes from the runway to their homes, and planes would have priority over vehicles maneuvering the wide streets.

At the Sept. 16 hearing, County Fire Marshall Richard Pate echoed concerns of some residents who attended the initial public hearing.

Pate said he thought it would be a fire and safety hazard to allow some residents to store as much as 50 gallons of aircraft fuel at their homes.

Others present complained about the noise that would be generated from aircraft flying out and landing at the airport, about a loss of privacy and of future plans for the air strip community to include a restaurant, an aircraft maintenance shop and other commercial ventures.

Residents also were concerned that a plane might crash and burn enroute to the airport or landing there, endangering their nearby homes.

After hearing the arguments, four of the commissioners present voted against the Phase I development.

Commission Chairman C.A. Russ was absent.

Gill now has until 5 p.m. tomorrow to appeal directly to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, which has a meeting scheduled Sept. 30.

If supervisors uphold the Planning Commission and reject Gill's appeal, he then has the option to challenge the ruling in Circuit Court.

Crossing -- nurse asks council for help through national programs such as Operation: Lifesaver, which was first federally-funded in 1913 to help improve safety on America's railways and chooses 10-15 crossings per year in the state of Mississippi to upgrade; and Angels on Track. She asked the council to consider approaching one or both agencies to assist with improvements at the Webb Street crossing, explaining that as a governmental agency, the council could probably achieve quicker results than she could as a lone private citizen.

Interestingly, Gaines said, through her research, she discovered the Mississippi Department of Transportation had no record of the Aug. 14 fatal accident until she told them about it last week.

MDOT officials are now scheduled to investigate the accident this Friday, she said.

In the meantime, Gaines said, "I'll go to every city council meeting until something is done."

Council members told Gaines they would investigate the matter thoroughly.

Bay -- a return to normalcy

To ensure a return to normalcy, Stasny said, the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board members met in special session Sunday evening to discuss some new security measures.

Among steps the board approved: Placing a full-time

"school resource" police officer on campus, contracted through the Bay St. Louis Police Department; establishing a 24-hour hotline to take anonymous tips about potential school violence; and conducting a public meeting with parents and teachers to discuss school safety issues, hear feedback on how the board handled the latest incident, and to hear suggestions on how the district can improve its reaction to such cases.

That meeting has been scheduled for Monday, Oct. 11, at the Bay High School auditorium, Stasny said.

The board will conduct hearings for the four students accused of making the threats some time next week, Stasny said.

of Garden Isles Subdivision off Garden Road.

"Residents must complete the required documentation and obtain necessary instruction for connecting to the sewer system," said Gauthreaux. "All documents must be completed by Oct. 1, 1999."

Gauthreaux said it is necessary for residents to determine the placement of your sewer tap on the right-of-way in front of each home. "Failure to request location of the sewer tap will result in placement at the discretion of the district," she warned.

"Once in place it (the sewer tap) cannot be moved."

For more information, residents are urged to call the District at 467-6208 or visit the office on Longfellow behind the Human Resources Building between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Governor proclaims October as Crime Prevention Month

Gov. Kirk Fordice has proclaimed October as Crime Prevention Month in Mississippi and noted that "crime prevention initiatives must include, and go beyond, self-protection and security to promote collaborative efforts to make neighborhoods safe for all ages and to develop positive educational and recreational opportunities for young people."

Fordice said that "effective crime prevention programs excel because of partnerships among law enforcement, other government agencies, civic groups, schools, faith communities, businesses and individuals as they help to nurture communal responsibility and instill pride."

Public Safety Commissioner Jim Ingram said that "the typical criminal looks for easy targets. If the criminal does not view you or your home as an easy target, he or she likely will seek easier prey. Taking crime prevention steps now is the best investment you can make in not becoming a victim."

Takin' out the trash

OLA students did their share to help on Saturday during the annual Mississippi Coastal Cleanup. Bob Cosby, an adult volunteer with the Our Lady of the Academy students ties a bag of litter collected near deMontluzin Avenue on the Bay St. Louis beach.

Pickup loads of litter collected along Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis by St. Stanislaus students and Father John Rietti, Stanislaus faculty member is piled at the Washington Street pier to be collected by Waste Management on Saturday. The students collected all types of litter along the Beach area.

Bay-Waveland Garden Club members selected an area of North Beach Boulevard to cleanup on Saturday. A project of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club is to promote beauty in the community and stop litter.

Collecting litter along Beach Boulevard in the Clermont Harbor-Lakeshore area was Betsy Ashman, longtime member of the Hancock County Beautification Committee. Ashman reported the amount of litter along the beach in the area has been reduced over prior years.

Bay High Student Council members were busy Saturday on Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis making a difference in our community's appearance. Student Council Mary Kaye Jones is at right.

Local volunteers make Coastal Cleanup a clean sweep

Story and Photos
BY ELLIS C. GUEVAS
Hancock Countians were out in full force on Saturday, putting a dent into litter along our shorelines in connection with the 11th Annual Mississippi Coastal Cleanup. More than 300 volunteers participated in the Hancock County cleanup, collecting 291 bags of litter in addition to two dump-truck-loads of litter.

Along the beach from the mouth of the Jourdan River to Bayou Cadet, 291 bags of litter were collected. Some 10 members of the Lakeshore-Ansley Civic Association, in policing the 3-1/2 miles of the Ansley/Heron Bay Road, filled a dump truck with debris, association president John Madden reported. Another dump-truck of debris was collected from the waterways of the Garden Isles Subdivision and the Jourdan River with one dozen boats participating, Sue Busy reported. Hancock County Board of Supervisors provided a dump truck for the Garden Isle waterways cleanup and also a truck and driver for the Ansley/Heron Bay Road cleanups. Coast-wide, there were over 2,000 bags of trash collected, with more than 2,600 volunteers participating in the annual cleanup. The local cleanup is in conjunction with the International Coastal Cleanup. Several volunteers collected litter bucks, which were once again provided by Union Planters Bank in Hancock County. Waste Management, Inc., provided a truck to collect the bags of litter collected in Hancock County along the beach following the cleanup. Volunteers in Hancock County included students from various schools to senior citizens. U.S. Congressman Gene Taylor's office, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and Wal-Mart Waveland, provided hot-dogs and refreshments for Hancock participants in the cleanup.

The Hancock County Chamber Beautification Committee sponsors two cleanups a year, one in conjunction with the Coastal Cleanup in September and another prior to the annual Spring Pilgrimage. The committee appreciates the support it receives from the citizens in making the cleanups such a success. Amy Gregory, chamber executive director, said.

SPORTS

2B-THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1999

Bob Harmon Football Forecast

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, SEPT. 26-27
ATLANTA 32 — ST. LOUIS 16

(Sunday) Atlanta's Jamal Anderson was unstoppable against the Rams in 1998, running for 360 yards and four TD's in 37-15 and 21-10 Falcons victories, their third and fourth in a row in the series.

*BALTIMORE 17 — CLEVELAND 10

A team from Baltimore last battled one from Cleveland 16 years ago, when, for what it's worth, the Browns were 41-23 winners. Those clubs will fight to stay out of the AFC Central cellar.

*BUFFALO 27 — PHILADELPHIA 7

This series is tied at 4-4, but the Bills have won all three games with the Eagles in the '90s, most recently 24-17 in '96. Against the woeful Philly defense, Buffalo should run all day.

*CAROLINA 21 — CINCINNATI 16

A first-ever matchup, between teams that ranked near the bottom on defense last year and not much higher on offense. It's a tough call and may be a great game, but it won't count for much.

DENVER 28 — TAMPA BAY 21

Speaking of great games, this could be one, too, if the Buccaneers put the ball up against the Broncos' only real weakness, pass defense. They've faced off four times; Denver's won three.

*JACKSONVILLE — 26 TENNESSEE 13

The Jaguars and Titans split last year, Jacksonville winning 27-22 in Nashville and Tennessee striking back 16-13 in Jacksonville. The home team has won only once in their eight matchups.

*KANSAS CITY 20 — DETROIT 9

Newly focused on stopping the run, the Chiefs should succeed against the Sanders-less Lions backfield. But if K.C. hopes to be a contender, it must make short work of teams like Detroit.

MINNESOTA 24 — GREEN BAY 21

Here's the headache-inducing pick of the week. In '98 the Vikings won their first game in Wisconsin since '93, 37-24, then completed their first sweep of the Packers since, yup, '93, 28-14.

*NEW ENGLAND 14 — N.Y. GIANTS 13

Let's match strengths: The Patriots love to pass, and the Giants like, to be passed against. N.Y. moves best on the ground, and N.E. excels at stopping the run. N.Y. leads the series 3-2.

*N.Y. JETS 35 — WASHINGTON 14

In the department of meaningless statistics, the Redskins have won five of their six games with the Jets, most recently three years ago. N.Y. will run all over Washington's young defense.

*OAKLAND 29 — CHICAGO 12

The Bears are a rare weak opponent this season for Oakland, so the Raiders my cut loose. (That is, if they don't have a massive let-down and get punted.) Chicago was a 19-17 winner in '96.

*SAN DIEGO 13 — INDIANAPOLIS 7

Ending a string of six straight regular-season losses to the Chargers, the Colts beat S.D. 17-12 last year. The Chargers have plenty of defense; what's in doubt is whether they can score.

SEATTLE 19 — PITTSBURGH 16

This well-matched series stands at 6-6. Led by Jerome Bettis's 138 yards of rushing, the Steelers won a tense one over the Seahawks in '98 in Pittsburgh, 13-10. Two more suspect offenses.

(MONDAY) SAN FRANCISCO 24 — ARIZONA 17

You'd never guess it, but this rivalry, too, is balanced: The 49ers have only a 10-9 edge, though they haven't met in six years. S.F. thrives on Mondays; the Cardinals don't, and won't.

(Open date: Dallas, Miami, New Orleans)

College Highlights for Sept. 25

A mild upset may be the game, of the week in Madison, Wis., where we think the Wisconsin Badgers will earn some payback from the Michigan Wolverines after a 1998 loss that still haunts Wisconsin.

Last November in Ann Arbor, Mich., then-No. 15 Michigan beat the previously undefeated, eighth-ranked Badgers 27-10, shutting down running back Ron Dayne and with him the Wisconsin offense. The Badgers, who hadn't faced a ranked team before the Wolverines, couldn't stop Michigan's ground game like they had all others, giving up 257 rushing yards. This time, Dayne and the formidable Wisconsin defense will redeem themselves.

A bigger upset pick will prove either that we're geniuses or that we're nuts: We like Southern Mississippi—on the road, no less—

PRCC captures first win of 1999 with 24-8 decision

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Pearl River Community College Wildcats tallied the first win of the 1999 junior college football season with a 24-8 decision over the visiting and winless Mississippi Delta Trojans. The win ups the Wildcats record to 1-2 overall.

With just a little more than two-and-a-half minutes gone, PRCC went ahead with a one-yard run by quarterback Anfre Granger. Jack Byrd made good on the point-after-touchdown (PAT) to make the score 7-0.

With 11:35 left to play in the first half, fullback Avery Hatten scored from 13 yards out. Byrd's PAT was once again good for a 14-0 lead. The drive and score was kept alive by a facemask penalty against the Trojans.

PRCC spread the wealth running the football as running back Ramah Smith added a three-yard score with 2:42 left in the second half. Byrd converted on the PAT to make the score 21-0.

Defensive back Travis Covington stopped a Delta drive with a fumble recovery at the Wildcats' 30 yardline. Byrd later added a 33-yard field goal that closed out the scoring for PRCC.

Delta avoided the shutout with a 13-play drive that covered 76 yards. Delta quarterback Lekendrick Powell connected with Mario Young for a 14-yard scoring pass. Running back Danny Smith added the two-point conversion to make the final score.

over Texas A&M. The Golden Eagles will overcome one of the fiercest defenses in the country and win their first game from the Aggies in seven tries. In last year's matchup, a 24-6 Texas A&M win, Aggies star Dante Hall ran for two TD's, Southern Miss turned the ball over five times, and neither team had 180 yards of total offense. Look for more of the same, different result.

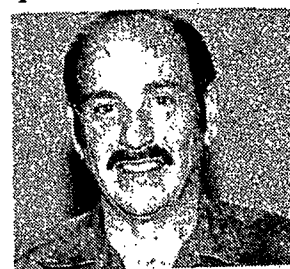

In Tuscaloosa, Ala., Arkansas should beat up once more on its Southeastern Conference West rival, Alabama, though the Crimson Tide will be as mad for revenge as Wisconsin. A year ago in Fayetteville, Ark., the Razorbacks ran wild against 22nd-ranked Alabama, 42-6, amassing 445 yards of offense and 26 first downs while the defense held Crimson Tide running back Shaun Alexander to 48 yards in 21 carries. Arkansas has won three of the last four games in this series.

It'll be No. 21 in a row for Nebraska over Missouri, which keeps threatening the Cornhuskers but can't get past them. In '98, Tigers QB Corby Jones was sacked at Nebraska's 34-yard-line on the last play of the game and Nebraska escaped with a 20-13 win—the same way the 'Huskers' battle with Missouri had ended in '97. In Eugene, Ore., meanwhile, Southern Cal will turn the tables on Oregon, whose then-12th-ranked Ducks edged the upset-minded Trojans last year, 17-13.

Virginia and Brigham Young will meet for the first time since the '87 All-American Bowl, and several teams will take on powerhouses they'll wish they'd never met: Indiana (Penn State), Memphis (Tennessee), Clemson (Virginia Tech), Central Florida (Georgia), Cincinnati (Ohio State), Stanford (U.C.L.A.), Iowa State (Kansas State), and Northwestern (Purdue).

Rocks to play Hawks; Tigers set to tangle with Pearl River

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws, Hancock Hawks, and Bay High Tigers all recorded wins last Friday night in area high school football action. SSC defeated the always-strong d'Iberville Warriors 28-17 in their home opener. The Hawks blanked the Ocean Springs Greyhounds on the road by a score of 21-0. The Bay High Tigers swatted the Hornets 25-7 in the friendly confines of Joe D. McCullough Stadium.

SSC moved to 4-0 on the season with their win over the Warriors. It was the Rocks' best start since 1991. In the win, Rock running back Kris Cannon set the all-time mark in rushing yards with a 130-yard performance. His career totals are now 2,057 yards. For the year, Cannon has rushed for 573 yards.

Also, junior quarterback Jason Santiago moved to No. 2 all-time in passing yards with his 259-yard performance. Santiago now has 2,452 yards in his career and trails only Cedric Smith who played for the Rocks from 1987-89.

This week, the Rocks have a much bigger task in front of them as they will face cross-county rival Hancock in the division opener for both schools. The Rocks defeated the Hawks last year 22-12.

The Rocks offensive line of Neil Favre, Stephen Peterman, Willie Golden, Hunter Dawkins, Travis Fucich, John Ellis, and Ashley Piazza need to protect Santiago and open holes for Cannon as they have done all year long. Several times this year, the Rocks have turned the ball over while driving. SSC has to concentrate on holding onto the ball against the Hawks, who have playmakers of their own.

Freshman quarterback Brandon Nicaise stormed onto the scene two weeks ago and has not let up since. He has taken control of the team, along with double-threat Chris Goff who can catch and run the pigskin. Chris Payne knows how to fire through the line from the full-back position and is a work-horse for the Hawks. The fans should see some entertaining and hard-hitting action this Friday night 'in between the walls' at Brother Philip Stadium in Bay St. Louis.

The Tigers of Bay High will take their winning ways on the road to Carriere to challenge the Pearl River Central Blue Devils in their Division 7 Class 4A opener.

The Tigers continue to have potent weapons in senior quarterback Ty Barrett and running back Ronald Brown. Barrett brings more to the table than just talent. He brings maturity, intensity, poise, and leadership. The Tigers need to keep the ball in the hands of Barrett and let him direct the Tigers offense. When Barrett gets the ball to his playmaker Brown, good things seem to happen. The Tigers will rely heavily on those two weapons in the hostile area of Carriere.

All games are slated to start at 7:30pm. See you at the game!

Liz Wahl took third in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 31.75.

The women's 200-yard medley relay team placed third with a time of 2:25.49. Hancock's B team placed third in the 200-yard freestyle relay. In the last event of the night, the 400-yard freestyle relay, the girls' A team placed third with a time of 4:57.09.

Biloxi won the girls division with 71 points, followed by Hancock with 14 points, and d'Iberville had nine points.

Last Saturday, Hancock participated in the Hattiesburg Invitational Swim Meet on the campus of the University of Southern Mississippi. The Hawks combined for 54 points to tie for seventh place with Northeast High School. Biloxi won the meet with a combined score of 253 points. Hattiesburg placed second with 231 points, followed by Harrison Central with 115, West Jones 111, Oak Grove 99, Gulfport 87, Hancock and Northeast 54, and d'Iberville with 30 points.

In the men's division, Hancock tied with d'Iberville for eighth place with 17 points. However, in the women's division Hancock placed sixth with 37 points.

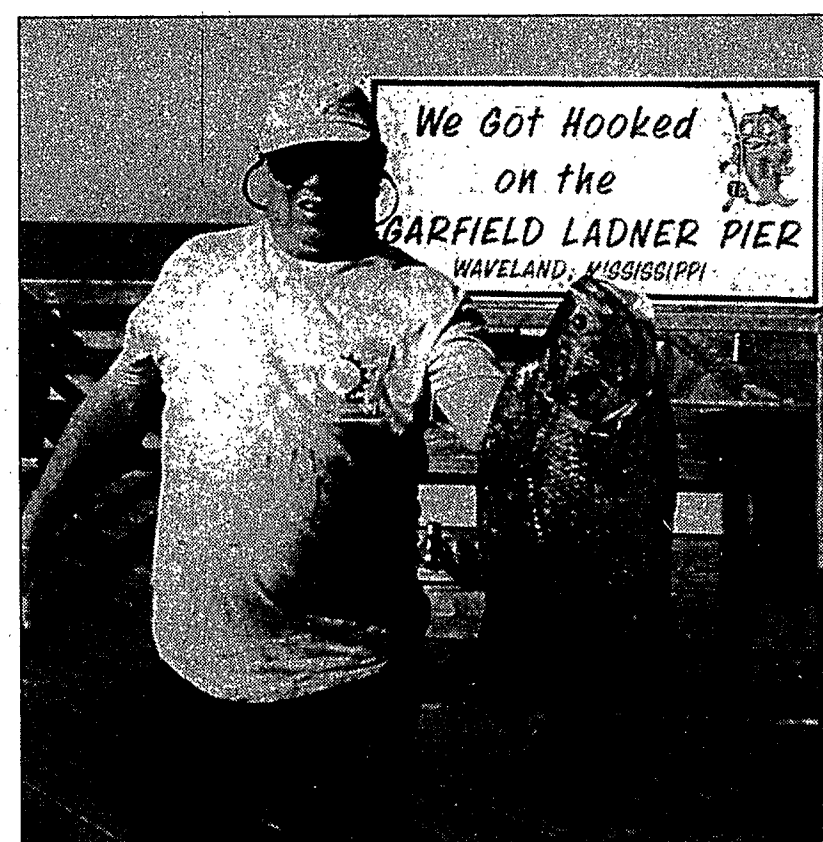

The top finisher for the Hawks was the men's 200-yard freestyle relay team of Owen Sullivan, Chris Ruddell, Jason Selzer, and Adam Rosser which placed fifth with a time of 2:01.69.

On the women's side, the top finisher was Cindy Spangler in the 100-yard freestyle with a third place finish. Spangler's time was 1:06.22. The women's 200-yard freestyle relay team of Kristi Keating, Ally Gann, Spangler, and Katy Easter placed fourth with a time of 2:09.49.

The Hawks next meet will be this Saturday, Sept. 25th, against Ocean Springs.

Fishy story

Greg Strickland, a Bay St. Louis resident, recently caught a rare 10-pound triple-tail on an artificial DOA lure with a 10-pound test line off the Garfield Ladner Pier in Waveland. Only three triple-tails have ever been caught off the pier in its history. Strickland said he normally catches specks and flounders off the pier. The fish put up a fight (at least 10 minutes) which Strickland said felt like an hour, but it was worth it—good eating. (Photo by Larry Main)

Capitals outlast Predators in NHL exhibition

BY JOSEPH W. GREK II

The Mississippi Gulf Coast got a treat on Saturday. The National Hockey League visited the Mississippi Coast Coliseum and an estimated 5,000 fans for a one-game exhibition contest between the Nashville Predators and the Washington Capitals. The Predators are in their second year of existence, while the Capitals are no strangers to the NHL.

The Capitals dominated the game after a sluggish first period and won 2-1.

Nashville took control of the pace of the game early in the first period and tallied 17 shots on goal, while Washington goalie Martin Brochu showed why he was a top draft pick of the organization four years ago. Brochu made countless diving saves at the net for the Capitals and kept the game scoreless through the period.

The Capitals rebounded in the second period and took a 1-0 lead, despite only taking seven shots. Milka Elomo scored the Capitals' first goal with 2:00 remaining in the period. The rebound shot came after Predator goalie Corey Hirsch deflected a shot from Krys

Beech.

Nashville went back on the offensive, pounding out 16 shots in the third period. Rich Brennan tied the game at 1-1 for the Predators when he scored a power-play goal on Washington's goalie Sebastian Charpentier with 18:32 remaining in the game.

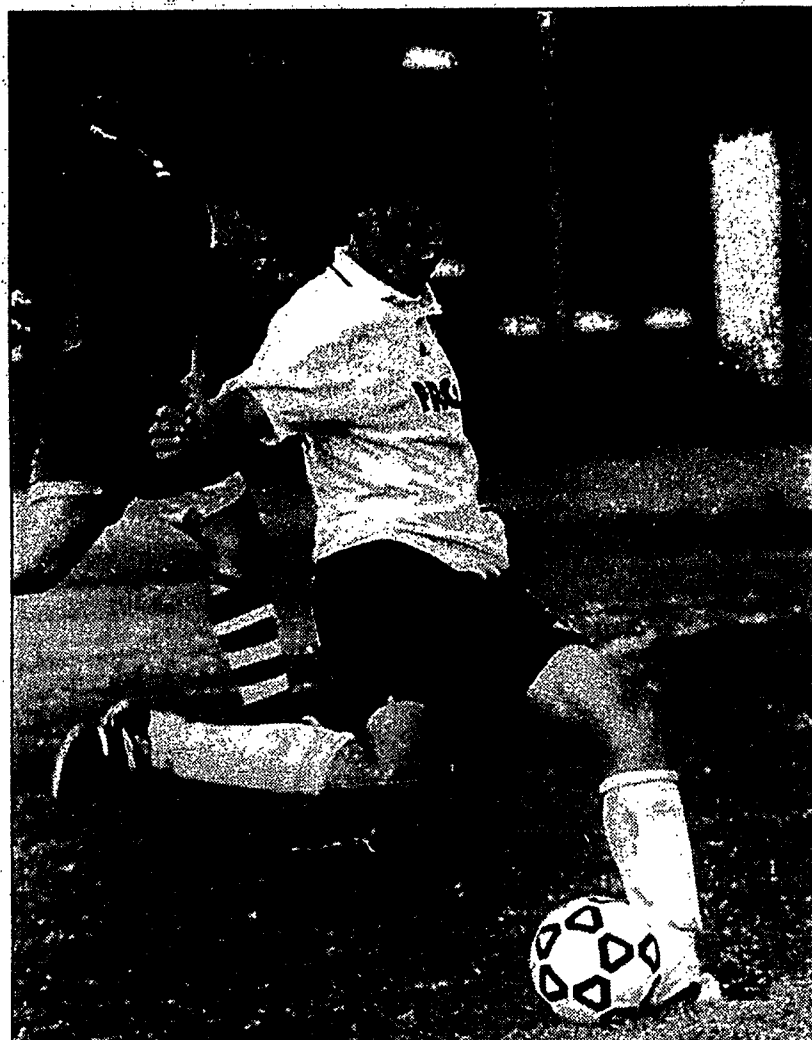

However, the seasoned Washington squad was not to be denied. Michael Sivek scored on a break-away goal with 7:41 left to play. Sivek was assisted by Joe Sacco on the shot.

The exhibition was a teaser for the 1999-2000 season opener for the Mississippi Sea Wolves. The reigning ECHL Kelly Cup Champions open their season on Oct. 16 against the Baton Rouge Kingfish on the road.

The Sea Wolves return to the Wolves' Den to open their home season the following night against the Kingfish. There will be a banner and ring ceremony for the players and coaches to honor their 1998-99 achievement.

Please call the Mississippi Coast Coliseum for more information and tickets to the "coolest games in town."

PRCC men collect second win of 1999

Pearl River Community College's Wildcat soccer team took their second victory of the 1999 season Tuesday, pounding Copiah-Lincoln 6-1 to improve to 2-1-1 in their inaugural season. The women's team opened the afternoon's action with a 10-0 splattering of the Lady Wolves, collecting its first-ever victory. The Lady Wildcats are now 1-2-1. The contest was the first game ever for the Lady Wolves. Here PRCC midfielder Jeff Rose of Bay St. Louis (Bay High) scores one of his game-high three goals against the Wolves. All of Rose's scores came in the first half. Rose is also a member of the PRCC tennis team. (PRCC photo by Mitch Deaver)

Food Plots - Part I by James L. Cummins, Jr.

Wildlife food plots are very attractive to wildlife because they can supplement their daily nutritional needs. They can contain wild or cultivated vegetation, or both.

They serve as a source of food or cover depending on the greater need on a given acreage. Well-managed food plots have the potential to increase numbers of wildlife, quality of health and observability.

Consistently productive food plots require considerable thought and planning before they are planted. Prior to planting food plots, inventory the existing natural foods which are available and manage them for maximum production.

There are several factors to consider when planning food plots. They include location, size and spacing.

Food plots should be located near cover on fertile soils with adequate drainage. Soil testing is an important factor in having a productive food plot.

Plot size and shape may vary according to the type of planting and the intended wildlife use.

Plots should be scattered over the entire property if possible. It would be more beneficial to establish ten plots, two acres in size scattered over the entire property, than to have one plot which is twenty acres in size.

Depending on the species that you are trying to manage for, plants can vary. Food for white-tailed deer should be made available during all times of the year. This will provide forage during stressful periods of the year, such as late winter, early spring and late summer.

Planting a variety of species which will provide food during these stress periods is a common approach. To accomplish this, both warm and cool season plantings should be used. If agricultural crops are being produced in the area, leaving unharvested strips near wooded areas will also provide forage.

The size of food plots for white-tailed deer should not be less than one acre in order to provide adequate sunlight. Two to five acre plots work best.

During the cool-seasons, small grains and clovers are the preferred plantings of white-tailed deer. During the warm season, soybeans are preferred over all other forages.

Cool season plantings include arrowleaf clover, ladino clover, LA-SI clover, ryegrass, oats and winter peas. Warm-season plantings which work well for deer are soybeans, corn, browntop millet and Japanese millet. Next week, we will discuss the best food plots for waterfowl, quail and turkey.

James L. Cummins, Jr. is executive director of the Mississippi Fish and Wildlife Foundation in Stoneville, Mississippi. Known as "Wildlife Mississippi," the Foundation is a non-profit, conservation organization founded to conserve, restore and enhance fish, wildlife and plant resources throughout Mississippi.

Forestry, MDOT, making state's roads more pleasant

Travel in Mississippi will soon be more pleasant, thanks to the cooperative efforts of the Mississippi Forestry Commission and the Mississippi Transportation Commission. The two agencies joined forces recently in an effort to plant trees to enhance the state's transportation system.

The new Transportation Enhancement Tree Planting Program will be administered by the Mississippi Forestry Commission and funded with federal enhancement moneys channeled through the Mississippi Department of Transportation.

The funds will be available at the rate of $150,000 annually for three years. Under the new challenge grant program, local government and state agencies will be eligible to apply on an annual basis for funds to plant trees on public property along transportation corridors.

Municipal and county governments and state agencies can apply for grants ranging from $ 1,000 to $15,000 per applicant per year on a 75 percent federal, 25 percent local matching basis. The local match may be in the form of cash or in-kind services.

All trees will be planted using strict guidelines to ensure the safety of the traveling public. Projects may be undertaken on public properties in close proximity to (in sight of) a public transportation corridor or facility.

These include, but are not limited to, municipal, county, state or federal roadways, railroads, depots, transportation administration buildings, port facilities, and bike or pedestrian paths.

Some examples of transportation enhancement through tree planting include the use of trees for screens, for erosion control, as stream buffers, sound barriers, windbreaks, for shade, and for beauty.

Interested parties should contact the Mississippi Forestry Commission for an application.

Ole Miss history symposium

In terms of its enduring legacy and its indelible imagery, the history of the Civil Rights Movement in the American South is well-known and documented.

From the dramatic image of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. reciting his "I Have A Dream" speech against the backdrop of the Lincoln Memorial to the scowling presence of Birmingham, Ala., Police Commissioner Eugene "Bill" Conner ordering officers to run fire hoses on demonstrators, the visual and recorded chronicle of the era is writ large on the psyche of the South, the nation and the world.

But what about the role of ideas in the American South in the 1950s and '60s?

This question and many others are among the topics to be addressed during the Porter L. Fortune Jr. history symposium Sept. 29 through Oct. 1 at the University of Mississippi. The symposium is sponsored by the Ole Miss Department of History and Center for the Study of Southern Culture. The theme of the 24th annual symposium is "The Role of Ideas in the Civil Rights-Era South" which brings together some of the world's most renowned scholars.

For the symposium's keynote address, Linda Reed, a professor of history at the University of Houston, will deliver "Fannie Lou Hamer: New Ideas for the Civil Rights Movement and American Democracy."

No registration is necessary and the symposium is free of charge to the public.

For information, contact Dr. Ted Ownby at 662-915-7148 or visit the symposium website at www.olemiss.edu/depts/history/symposium.
